

JAMES ANDERSON NAMED GENERAL MANAGER OF JREC

James (Jim) Anderson has accepted the position of GENERAL MANAGER of Jump River Electric Cooperative

Jim will be joining the team at Jump River Electric in early September, relocating from Tanner Electric Cooperative in North Bend Washington (site of the TV show Twin Peaks). Jim is currently the Manager of Operations and Engineering at Tanner Electric Cooperative. Jim has also worked for electric cooperatives in Montana and Oregon working his way toward a General Managers position. Before joining the cooperative family he worked for investor owned utility companies in Oregon.

Jim has worked in generation, transmission, distribution and substation construction and maintenance, as well as metering. He holds Journeyman classifications as a Lineman, Substation Wireman, and is also a Meter/Relay Technician. He has helped implement new technologies and ideas in the electric utility industry for the improvement of power quality and system reliability

Jim's education is in business management and has continued his education and training in all phases of utility operations and management. Jim is a member of IEEE, as well as other professional associations. Jim is looking forward to using this knowledge to benefit the members of Jump River Electric Cooperative.

Jim and his wife have family in Wisconsin and Minnesota; they are looking forward to being active members in the community.
